Sharon Rosenhouse, managing editor of the Sun-Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and the Pacific Daily News on Guam were named winners of the fifth annual Robert G. McGruder Awards for Diversity Leadership.

The awards, which recognize leadership in news content and in recruiting, developing and retaining journalists of color, were presented at the Associated Press Managing Editors conference Oct. 26 in New Orleans.

At the Sun-Sentinel, the efforts of Rosenhouse, who won in the over-75,000 circulation category, have helped increase the percentage of minority newsroom employees to more than 29% from 19%.

Rosenhouse has been chair of ASNE's Diversity Committee and a member of the advisory board of the Race and Diversity Workshop at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism. She hosted an ASNE Diversity Leadership Institute and proposed and found funding for a Florida Society of Newspaper Editors' multimedia scholarship for diverse college students.

The Pacific Daily News, winner in the under-75,000 circulation category, was honored for its exemplary home-grown recruiting efforts.

"The Pacific Daily News has done a remarkable job of diversifying its newsroom to reflect the community it serves," said Charlotte Hall, editor of the Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel and a 2003 McGruder winner. "Against the odds, it has grown its own journalists from the island through a comprehensive program starting with high school internships. The result is a paper that understands and better serves its richly complex community," said Hall, who helped judge the 2006 awards.

The honors were given by APME and the American Society of Newspaper Editors in partnership with the Freedom Forum, which provides the funding. Each honoree receives $2,500 and a sculpture.

Anchorman Schieffer brings substance, style to awards night

An overflow crowd at the presentation of the Al Neuharth Award for Excellence in the Media got more than it bargained for when it came to see recipient Bob Schieffer. The self-effacing journalist and author not only talked about his 30 years covering Washington, but he also revealed a heretofore unknown “talent” as a singer-songwriter.

Schieffer, who received the award Oct. 5 at the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, spent the day talking with state and local news media as well as hundreds of students about the state of journalism, the most memorable moments of his career and his most-recent stint as interim anchor of CBS Evening News.

“I cannot remember when there has been a time more challenging for journalists,” Schieffer said. “Those on the left accuse us of being government lap dogs; those on the right accuse us of being elitist liberals that somehow want the country to fail, and they do so in the meanest possible language.”

After his remarks and many audience questions, Schieffer got down to business with a few musician friends, who helped him put some poems to song. He brought down the house with “TV Anchorman,” a tongue-in-cheek tale of how a gas-station attendant rises to media stardom.

All jokes aside, Neuharth said that anchorman Schieffer, who has covered four major beats in Washington, D.C. — the White House, the Pentagon, the State Department and Capitol Hill — was “the best of the best. He brought the shine back to CBS News.”

The University of South Dakota and the Freedom Forum created the Neuharth award in 1989. Neuharth is a South Dakota native and a 1950 graduate of USD.
